

Optimal D&O protection for law firm management

While D&O insurance these days is an integral part of corporate insurance portfolios, it still is an exception when it comes to law firms.

But the business of law firms also is constantly about being able to compete successfully, about quality assurance, recruiting suitable staff, feasibility, about compliance and risk management.

Law firm managers are personally liable for errors.

The major reform of the Federal Code for Lawyers is opening up new possibilities for law firms in terms of interprofessional collaboration and corporate law organization - this presents not only a plethora of new opportunities, but numerous risks as well.

Decisions that subsequently turn out to be flawed or the erroneous failure to take adequate actions may seriously affect the private assets of law firm managers or those of the law firm.

The personal liability risk arising from law firm management is not covered by mandatory professional liability insurance.
